

We're looking for leaders like you

Join Breast Cancer Action's Board of Directors

Breast Cancer Action (BCA) is recruiting people from around the country to build a nationally representative board of directors over the next few years. In the coming months, our board plans to add several new members. We are seeking people who understand and endorse BCA's mission and goals, and who are committed to the progressive agenda of our organization. In particular, we are seeking people of color, those living with breast cancer, and people with fundraising skills and interest and financial skills.

Here's what it takes

Breast Cancer Action board members are expected to attend three meetings each year (travel expenses covered) and participate in fundraising efforts. Each board member also serves on two board committees that meet by phone. Meetings will take place in the San Francisco area.
